With identity types evolving and access needs growing, organizations face two persistent challenges:

Fragmented operations and a steady rise in insider-related breaches. Identity systems are often managed in silos across IT, security, and compliance, leading to gaps and inefficiencies. Simultaneously, insider threats, whether inadvertent or intentional, remain a leading cause of breaches.

PAM360 delivers comprehensive security for every identity, human and non-human, by centralizing control, eliminating operational silos, and streamlining privileged access.

Adaptive security that evolves with your enterprise

PAM360 takes a layered, risk-aware approach to privileged access management, closing blind spots and significantly improving overall identity hygiene. Designed to meet modern access security demands, it equips organizations with precise, scalable controls to manage and govern privileged across the enterprise.

Secure every identity—human and non-human

Extend privileged access controls to all identities, from employees, vendors, and admins to service accounts, certificates, secrets, applications, and scripts—ensuring consistent governance and reducing risk across the board.

Stride towards zero standing privileges

Reduce always-on access down to zero by granting necessary privileges just-in-time, reducing the attack surface, and limiting the impact of compromised credentials.

Protect cloud entitlements with precision

Continuously discover and right-size permissions across your multi-cloud environments to prevent excessive access and misconfigurations.

Built-in intelligence, context-driven access policies

Leverage AI-governed access policies, actionable insights, risk scores, and behavioral analytics to make informed access decisions and respond proactively to threats.

Limitless, secure orchestration of privileged tasks

Streamline repetitive administrative actions with built-in automation capabilities, reducing manual effort, minimizing errors, and ensuring secure execution of critical tasks without compromising control.
